

The Von Hügel Lecture 2014
GOVERNING THE CHURCH
THE IMPERATIVE OF COLLEGIALITY

Professor Mary McAleese

Former President of Ireland
Honorary Fellow of St Edmund's College
Patron of the Von Hügel Institute

The lecture will address the topic of governance within the Catholic Church. This theme is very timely given the emphasis on collaboration spoken of by Pope Francis.

Before serving as President of Ireland from 1997-2011, Professor Mary McAleese was Reid Professor of Law at Trinity College Dublin and later Director of the Institute of Professional Legal Studies and Pro-Vice-Chancellor at Queen's University Belfast, where she is now Professor Emerita. She is currently studying for a doctoral degree in canon law at the Gregorian University in Rome. She has a long-standing commitment to issues of social justice and a keen interest in Catholic social teaching.
